Group ideas

Take turns sharing your ideas while clustering similar or related notes as you go. In the last 10 minutes, give each cluster a sentence-like label. If a cluster is bigger than six sticky notes, try and see if you can break it up into smaller sub-groups.

20 minutes

TIP
Add customizable tags to sticky notes to make it easier to find, browse, organize, and categorize important ideas as themes within your mind.

Step-3: Idea Prioritization

Prioritize

Your team should all be on the same page about what's important moving forward. Place your ideas on this grid to determine which ideas are important and which are feasible.

⌚ 20 minutes

Use Mural's timer feature to keep things on track while brainstorming, and use private mode to avoid groupthink; then, you can leverage a voting session to determine the best next steps!

Keep a record of your brainstorming so that you can return to your ideas and revisit questions over time — this may help generate even more solutions in the future

Brainstorming examples and techniques

There are many established (and highly effective!) brainstorming techniques that you can use to help boost your team's engagement and creativity. We've built out a definitive guide to brainstorming, as well as tips for how to facilitate brainstorming sessions, so that you can get the most out of your time together — regardless of where you are.

But before you begin, it's important to establish the rules of engagement — check out our piece on 7 ground rules for brainstorming to see why.

Common brainstorming techniques

Rapid ideation: This approach is just like it sounds — generate as many ideas as you can (quantity over quality, then filter later)

Brain-netting: This is focused on connecting hybrid and remote teams, capturing everyone's feedback with digital tools, and then connecting related ideas

Round robin: Here, participants write their ideas down during a set time period, before setting them aside to return to later, or passing them along to the next participant to build or comment on

Rolestorming: Participants role-play to place themselves in the mindset of a customer or persona (or even a famous person) to help build empathy and examine things from different perspectives

Mind mapping: This is a way to brain-dump and build out as many related ideas as possible, starting from a central theme (note: Mural now offers AI-assisted mind mapping tools)

If you're really stuck, we've also built out a list of 25 brainstorming questions to kickstart your creative thinking.
